

Sheep Ireland

Guide & Directory of Breeders

Sheep Ireland's goal is to identify rams that can consistently produce a decent crop of easy lambing lambs that will have high levels of survivability - meaning the largest possible number of lambs will be sold off the farm with the least amount of your intervention. We want to identify lambs that will grow quickly to a finishing weight - so we put a lot of emphasis on the "days to slaughter" trait. We are also now making progress on identifying rams that are likely to breed daughters that will make good flock replacements - that are prolific, milky and healthier. We analyse a huge amount of data on individual sheep over their lifetimes to identify bloodlines that are consistently delivering these traits. These tend to be the rams that are given the highest stars and also the highest accuracies.

Of course in this era of "fake news" it's very important to be able to back up any claims you make!! In the most recent Teagasc analysis comparing flocks that are using 5 star vs 1 star rams. The flocks using 5 star rams had –

- 1.2 % less lamb mortality
- 5 % less lambing difficulty
- and lambs that were 2.60 kgs heavier at weaning, to name a few of the traits

so there is a significant benefit from a labour and a profitability point of view from using 5 star rams, and this benefit is there every year over the lifetime of the ram.

So what does this all mean for you as a ram buyer? It means when you go to a ram sale and see a ram that you like the look of, if that ram has 4 or better again 5 stars and a high accuracy, he is far more likely to pass on these key traits to his progeny and in doing so make your life easier at lambing time and leave you more profit.

If you like to buy your rams directly from the breeder at their farm why not ask if the rams have performance figures or "stars" - with the number of pedigree breeders now participating in the breed improvement programme you shouldn't have to travel far to find a breeder who has rams with "stars".

SHEEP IRELAND BACKGROUND

Sheep Ireland was established in 2009. It was recognised that Ireland needed a new sustainable breed improvement programme that would identify the best genetics to improve growth rates, lambing performance and health. One of the main drivers that affect farm profitability is the number of lambs weaned per ewe per year, of which Ireland's average (1.3 lambs per ewe) has not progressed in the last 30 years or so. There is significant scope for national sheep improvement using genetic improvement.

Sheep Ireland's main aims

- Increase the profitability of Irish sheep farmers
 - Identify and promote the most profitable sheep genetics in Ireland
 - Promote these top genetics through the Euro-Star indexes
- DAFM is providing financial support to Sheep Ireland in the form of an annual operating grant and through capital support from the NDP
 - Commercial farmers and LambPlus breeders are also financially contributing to the Sheep Ireland programme through the slaughter levy and the LambPlus sign-up fee

Our Mission Statement

To achieve the greatest possible improvement, from genetic and other factors, in the profitability of the national sheep flock for the benefit of Irish farmers and the sheep industry

Physical checks and EuroStars must go hand in hand

Step 1 – Ram NCT

Regardless of what EuroStar Index a ram may have, if the ram is not physically correct, he will not perform as he should. All farmers should carry out a ram NCT (check) on all existing stock rams and rams being considered for purchase. There are five basic things all sheep farmers should look at – these can be summarised as the 5 T's;

1. Timing

Rams should be assessed at least 10-12 weeks prior to breeding for body condition score and to identify any other potential problems. Early detection of physical issues provides a farmer with a chance to get the ram ready for the breeding season.

2. Tone

A ram should be in good condition for the annual breeding season. A target condition score of 4 will ensure that the ram is fit and not over fat. Rams will lose some condition over the course of a busy breeding season, so farmers need to ensure that rams are in adequate condition before mating begins.

3. Teeth

All breeding rams teeth should be checked annually. This check should extend to the overall mouth including the molars (side teeth), which should be checked by rubbing the outside of the rams checks for bumps/abscesses etc. Correct teeth/mouths are particularly important if replacement females are being retained from an individual breeding ram. Rams with teeth/mouth issues will struggle to maintain body condition and are not likely to perform to their potential.

4. Toes

Checking a rams toes pertains to checking his feet and legs. If a ram is lame at any point in time, it may lead to temporary fertility issues due to a rise in body temperature. Addressing lameness issues is one of the key reasons to assess rams 10-12 weeks before the breeding season. This will allow time to address any potential issues. Farmers should consider culling persistently lame rams and should not retain replacement females from such rams where possible. Rams should also have four strong, straight legs. The hind legs are particularly important when it comes to rams ability to mate ewes so pay particular attention here. Rams which are weak on their pasterns (the part of the leg just above the hoof) may need to be culled earlier than desired due to an inability to mate adequate numbers of ewes.

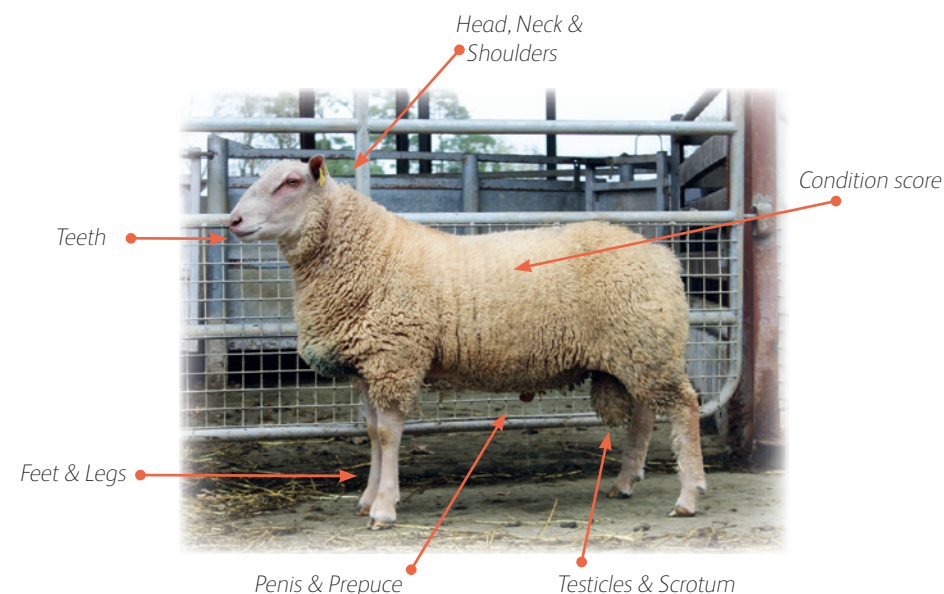

5. Testicles

Checking rams testicles is another critical part of the NCT. Bigger is generally better as these rams will generally produce more sperm. The most important thing however to check is that there are two testicles present. A ram can be fertile with a single testicle, but it may affect the number of ewes he will mate during the breeding season. The rams testicles should be loose and free from abnormal lumps/bumps. If checking the testicles appears to be causing the ram obvious pain, then this should be investigated closer by a vet. A rams penis area should also be checked for any obvious signs of trauma.

Final physical check

If possible at mating time, try to spend time watching rams with the ewes. Ensure that the ram is successfully mating with the ewes. All breeding rams should be raddled on their chest area or fitted with a crayon harness to mark each ewe as they are being mated. These raddle/crayon colours can then be changed on the ram/s in advance of the ewes second oestrus cycle (day 14/15 after initial ram introduction). A high number of ewes being marked by the second raddle/crayon will help to identify a fertility issue. If using a team of rams in the same group it will be difficult to identify an issue with an individual ram. If single sire mating, a ram fertility issue will be very obvious using the raddle/crayon. Speak to your local Teagasc/Agricultural advisor about any breeding issues that you may be having on your farm.

1. Replacement (€0.235) If a farmer desires a ram to breed lambs both for slaughter and replacement ewe lambs then they should select a ram based on this index. The bulk of this index is a combination of Lamb Survivability, Days to Slaughter, No. of lambs born & Daughters milk. The € value beside the index represents the difference in profit that each lamb sired from this ram will have.

2. Terminal (€0.695) If a farmer desires a ram to breed only lambs for slaughter then they should select a ram based on this index. The bulk of this index is a combination of Lamb Survivability, Days to Slaughter. The € value beside the index represents the difference in profit that each lamb sired from this ram will have.

3. Lamb Survivability This ranks animals based on lambing ease and lamb survival rate. Every positive % point on this index is an extra lamb surviving to 40 days and vice versa.

4. Days to slaughter This ranks animals on their genetic ability to grow. The index associated with this trait represents the difference in the predicted number of days required for the progeny of this ram to reach the desired slaughtered weight compared with other animals of the same breed.

5. No. of Lambs Born This ranks animals based on the predicted prolificacy of the females from this animal compared with other animals of the same breed

6. Daughters Milk This ranks animals based on the predicted milking performance of its daughters compared with other animals of the same breed

What is Flock Linkage and why is it important?

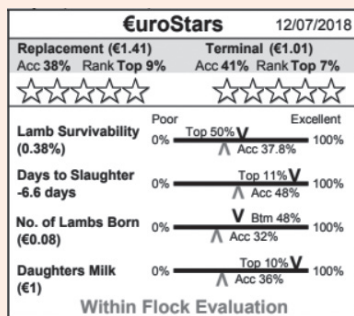

Flock linkage refers to how genetically related/connected a performance recording flock is to other performance recording flocks.

Genetic linkage is crucial for accurate genetic evaluations as it allows for fair and accurate comparisons between flocks. Flocks become linked by sharing rams with other LambPlus flocks within the same season.

Without flock linkage it is very difficult for the evaluation to determine if the subsequent lamb performance is due to the sire's genetics or due to the environment the lambs have been raised in.

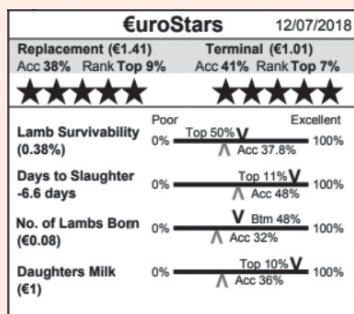

Flocks that are unlinked (do not share sires) essentially only have within flock evaluations. Therefore you cannot reliably compare the EuroStar index of sheep from unlinked flocks with EuroStars of sheep from other flocks of that breed.

This year, to help farmers identify linked and unlinked flocks, Sheep Ireland have changed the way EuroStars are displayed.

Unlinked Flocks

Unlinked flocks will appear like this example (with white EuroStars displaying). The genetic evaluations for these animals are only within the flock, meaning these evaluations can not be compared to animals from another flock, therefore the value of these evaluations are much more limited in helping farmers making informed decisions.

Linked Flocks

EuroStars from Linked flocks will be displayed as normal. When purchasing ram's, farmers should aim to purchase from Linked flocks where possible.

Accuracy % (Acc %)

A critical element of the €uro-Stars

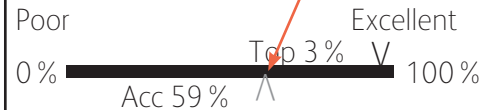

Acc is an abbreviation of Accuracy. This figure is extremely important as it represents the amount of data behind each individual evaluation. Where Acc % is Poor, a considerably smaller emphasis should be placed on the evaluation, however where Acc % is Good or V.Good a considerable emphasis can be placed on the evaluation when making a breeding decision.

Acc % parameters

V.Poor	0% - 14%
Poor	15% - 24%
Fair	25% - 34%
Good	35% - 49%
V. Good	50% and above

Accuracy is also displayed with the grey pointer. In this example the Accuracy % for this trait is 59 % which is considered V.Good.

Factors that affect accuracies

Accuracy % is a reflection of the amount of data available for a particular bloodline within a sheep breed. The more data that is available for a bloodline, the higher the accuracy % will be for an animal. Higher accuracy %, results in more dependable €uroStar evaluations. Low accuracy % evaluations are less dependable and may be subject to change as more data is recorded into the future.

Why do €uroStar evaluations change sometimes?

Due to lower than desired accuracy % for many animals/bloodlines/sheep breeds, there is the potential for €uroStar Indexes to change over time as more data is recorded for those particular animals/bloodlines/sheep breeds.

How to combat low Accuracy%

Using the 'Ram Team' concept

The threat posed by low accuracy affects all genetic evaluation systems. It takes a number of years to build accuracy % and performance data on our various sheep breeds. In dairy, low accuracy % evaluations are combated by using 'teams' of bulls. When purchasing AI straws a small number of straws from a large number of high Index bulls are used. In this way if one or two bull's indexes drop, the average genetic index of the 'team' is not impacted hugely. The herd still makes genetic progress.

Most Irish commercial sheep farmers use a number of rams annually – this is essentially a team of rams, so the same concept can and should be used to deliver genetic gain in the flock over a number of years.

Other things to look out for in relation to Accuracy%

- Try to purchase rams with as high an accuracy % as possible
 - This shows that there is a lot of data recorded for this bloodline
- Purchase from high Data Quality Index (DQI) LambPlus ram breeders
 - A high DQI illustrates that a breeder has recorded a high proportion of the data requested by Sheep Ireland annually
- Purchase rams that have Central Progeny Test (CPT) data in their background (see page 12 for more on the CPT)
 - The CPT is a ram testing programme which generates a large volume of commercial flock data on Irish sheep breeds annually.
 - Purchasing rams with CPT tested sires in their ancestry is very desirable as this will result in higher accuracy %
 - CPT rams have been tested in commercial conditions on large grass based farms, so this background data should be sought after by purchasers

Where to find €uro-Star Rams?

There are a range of options available to both pedigree and commercial farmers who are looking to find a Sheep Ireland performance recorded ram.

- The Sheep Ireland Online Ram Search found on the Sheep Ireland homepage at www.sheep.ie. This ram search allows farmers to search for rams by sheep breed, county, age and €uroStar index.
- The Directory of LambPlus breeders which can be found at the back of this publication. This lists breeders based on sheep breed and then by county.
- The Sheep Ireland multi-breed ram sale takes place on the fourth Saturday of August each year in Tullamore mart. Some of the best sheep genetics in the country are presented for sale here annually.
- The vast majority of breed society sales will have evaluations included in their sales catalogues, but we would always recommend that you contact the society in advance of the sale to ensure these animals and evaluations will be visible on the day. A list of society contacts can be found in this directory.

Ram Purchasing Advice

Michael Gottstein –
Teagasc head of Sheep Knowledge Transfer

Buyers of all rams are reminded to manage these animals very carefully in the initial weeks after purchase. A change of environment and feed has the potential to cause upset for any animal, especially for young animals. As a result management of newly purchased rams needs to be optimal.

Practical tips when buying rams

- Buy early - Allow rams some time to become acclimatised to their new surroundings and feed. If rams will be used in a team in the same group of ewes, they should be familiar with other well in advance of mating to minimise fighting.
- Ram history - Talk to the breeder/seller of your ram. Ask about health treatments, vaccinations, any specific farm issues, lameness etc.
- After purchase it is a good idea to quarantine the ram for a period of time to assess if he is carrying any disease such as CODD, scab etc. Treat any purchased sheep for stomach worms/scab with two injections of Ivermectin 7 days apart and a fourth-generation wormer (Zolvix/Startect) to prevent the importation of anthelmintic resistant worms onto your farm. On wet farms a double treatment for fluke (two different products both effective against immature fluke) will also help to guard against anthelmintic resistant liver fluke.
- Vaccinate all purchased rams against Clostridial diseases and pasteurella as per your own flock health protocol. Do not assume that the previous owner has done this correctly. This will require two injections four to six weeks apart. One dead ram will pay for a lot of vaccine.
- Feeding - The ram is very likely to have been fed some level of concentrates in advance of sale. Discuss with the vendor as to the type and quantity of concentrate feed that rams have been consuming. If a ram is being fed before sale, this feeding should continue for a period. Wean off this concentrate feeding gradually.
- Fertility - To identify fertility issues raddling the chest of the ram is critical. Use a crayon and harness or raddle powder which can be made into a paste by mixing it with oil. Change colour every 7-14 days to detect ram fertility problems ASAP. Ideal colour sequence is Yellow, Orange, Green, Red, Blue and finally Black. Bucket feeding rams will facilitate applying raddle more easily, reducing the need to unnecessarily disturb ewes.

- Fertility - A raised body temperature will kill any semen in the testes. Antibiotic treatment will not kill semen but will help to address the infection which is causing a high temperature. It can take semen up to 8 weeks to replenish for successful mating once killed off by a high temperature.
- Ram to ewe ratios – Typically ram lambs should not be overworked in their first year, mating with no more than 25 ewes. Hogget rams could be expected to mate with up to 40 ewes. Avoid running ram lambs alongside mature rams as this may risk injury and/or bullying.

Existing rams on the farm

- Carry out a physical assessment/NCT well in advance of mating (12 weeks or more)
- This will allow time to address any issue/s in advance of the mating season
- Ask yourself some important questions
 - What rams will I need this year?
 - Can I avoid inbreeding using my current ram team?
 - Are all current rams fit for purpose (in good health etc)?
- Rams in poor condition will take considerable time to build body weight, so the earlier rams are assembled and assessed each year, the better.

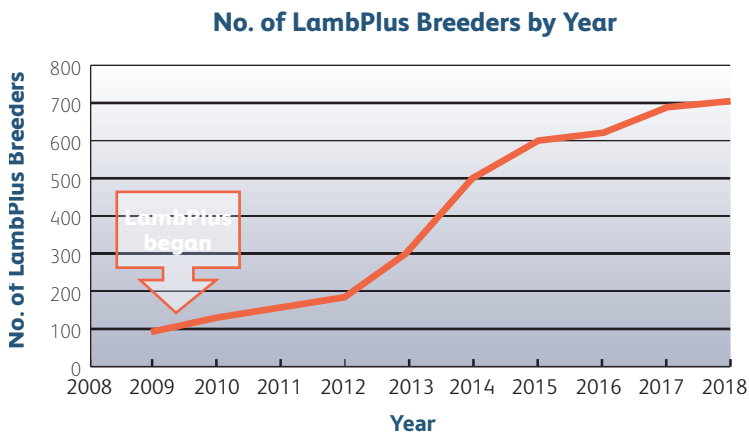

LambPlus

LambPlus is the performance recording programme which pedigree ram breeders and commercial sheep farmers participate in to performance record their flocks. LambPlus offers a state of the art online system to record flock data and provides genetic evaluations to users which are updated on a weekly basis.

The number of LambPlus participants has grown year on year since Sheep Ireland was founded in 2009. The programme began with less than 80 participants and has over 700 today. Continuing to grow participation is critical for several reasons

- 1. Increasing the number of recorded rams available for commercial farmers – currently
- 2. Increasing the amount of data recorded on each of our sheep bloodlines, leading to more accurate genetic evaluations
- 3. Increasing the rate of genetic gain in the national flock for the benefit of all Irish sheep farmers.

In 2017 data from over 20,000 purebred lambs has been collected. In addition to this data from purebred animals, data from almost 20,000 commercial lambs has also fed into the Sheep Ireland database in 2017. This commercial data comes from the Sheep Ireland Central Progeny Test (CPT), Teagasc research flocks, Teagasc Better farm programme flocks and from other independent commercial farmers performance recording their flocks.

€uroStar Indexes – What are the ingredients?

The following information is being collected by LambPlus breeders to construct the €uroStar indexes. This information is collected through a combination of LambPlus participants themselves and Sheep Ireland technicians which visit participant's farms.

- Mating
- Lambing data
Lamb Parentage, Lamb DOB, Lamb sex, Lambing Difficulty, All lamb mortalities, Birth weight, Rearing code (fostered, bottle reared, etc)
- Weight data
Birth weight, 40 day weight (good indicator of ewe milk), Weaning weights, Sale weight
- Ultrasound Scanning data (collected by Sheep Ireland technicians).
Lamb back muscle depth, Lamb back fat depth, Weight on the day of scanning, Lamb quality score, Dag scores (dirty backend score), Lameness scores
- Carcase data
Currently sourced from CPT (commercial flocks)
- Culling data
Reasons for culling/death

Data Quality Index (DQI)

The DQI is a figure that appears on all Sheep Ireland ram sale catalogues. This figure scores each LambPlus participant in relation to the quality of performance data recorded by the participant over the course of the year. Quality, Quantity and timeliness of data recording are the three major elements of the DQI. A high DQI % is desirable as it demonstrates that a substantial amount of information is being recorded by a particular flock.

€uroStars Indexes showing good results

The Central Progeny Test programme has generated a huge amount of sheep performance data since its foundation in 2010. This data can now be used to assess the differences between high €uroStar and low €uroStar sheep. The most recent look at this data has shown very encouraging results.

The table below shows some of the differences in performance that is happening in the CPT. The star ratings used in the validation were those of the Sire and Dam at mating time on either the Replacement or Terminal index. We can see that the 5 Star animals outperform the 1 Stars across all the traits, and this is why indexes are so important. Without indexes (Replacement/Terminal) it would be very difficult to make improvements in all areas without having a negative impact on another. While the difference in one particular trait may not appear significant, it's when we combine all these differences together that a real difference in overall flock performance can be seen.

Index	Trait	★	★★★★★	Difference
Replacement	Lamb Mortality (%)	10.65 %	9.45 %	-1.20 %
	Number of lambs born	1.92	1.97	0.05
	Ewe mature weight (kg)	78.7	76.8	-1.9
Terminal	Lambing Difficulty (%)	23.06 %	18.17 %	-4.89 %
	40 Day weight (kg)	18.1	20.2	2.1
	Weaning weight (kg)	31.9	34.5	2.6

The differences in the on-farm performance on the Replacement and Terminal indexes on CPT sheep across a number of key performance traits.

When the above gains are combined and applied across an individual flock, it is clear that there are significant benefits available for Irish sheep farmers. Furthermore, if these gains can be applied nationally, our industry can make great progress using sheep genetic indexes.

Key message

Genetic gains will remain in a flock into the future and can be built on year on year, so the potential for long term improvement is huge.

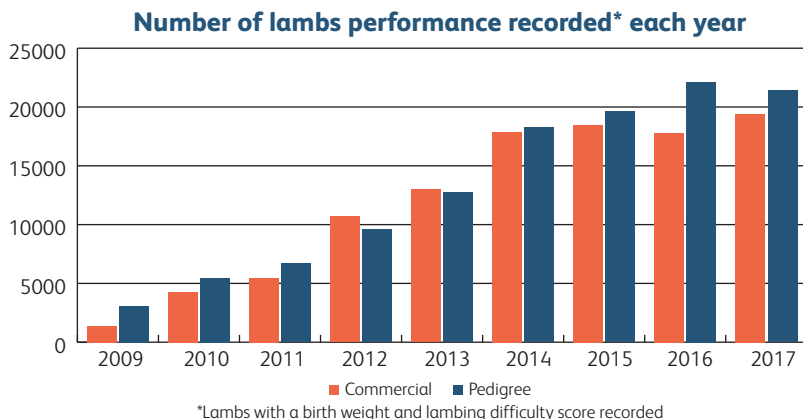

Commercial sheep data – driving the EuroStars

Every year, Sheep Ireland collects thousands of records from commercial sheep. The different traits that are recorded include lambing difficulty, birthweights, muscle and fat depths, lamb weights, ewe mature weights as well as health records including incidences of prolapse, lameness, mastitis, Body Condition Score and Dag Score along with many other traits that are important to the profitability of Irish sheep farmers and to the continued growth of the Irish sheep industry.

The Central Progeny Test (CPT) flocks make up the majority of the commercial data that Sheep Ireland collects along with data from some of the Teagasc BETTER Farm flocks and some independent flocks also. Each year, there are 2,200 CPT ewes Artificially Inseminated using high Replacement index stock rams sourced from performance recording pedigree breeders. The data that is collected on these CPT lambs then feeds back into the national database and contributes to the evaluations of their sires helping to build accuracy %. The CPT sires will also sire rams that will be available for commercial farmers to purchase that year.

Commercial data is hugely important to the Euro-Star evaluations. The number of performance recorded commercial lambs has risen significantly over the past few years and is almost on par with the number of performance recorded pedigree lambs. For commercial data to remain a huge driving force behind the Euro-Star evaluations, we would encourage commercial farmers to start performance recording their flocks. It has never been easier to performance record your flock with the use of the new LambPlus App, (see page 2). If you have an interest in performance recording your commercial flock, contact us today on 023 882 0451.

Sheep Genomics

The next step for genetic improvement

Genomics looks at the DNA of an individual sheep and identifies genes/traits within that DNA. Sheep Ireland will use this DNA information and combine it with the physical performance data that is currently being collected annually. This DNA or 'genomic' information will lead to higher accuracy % EuroStar evaluations for Irish sheep farmers.

To date, DNA samples have been collected and analysed from over 12,000 Irish pedigree sheep through a research project called OVIGEN which is funded by the Irish Department of Agriculture.

What will genomics offer to Irish sheep farmers?

- Genomic EuroStar breeding values – combining DNA information with physical performance records
- More accurate sheep EuroStar evaluations
- Faster rate of genetic gain for the national flock
- Parentage validation on rams presented for sale – critical for accurate genetic evaluations
- Identification of some 'major genes'

Research Projects – Preparing for the future

Research projects – preparing for the future!

Sheep Ireland are involved in a number of important projects with other industry partners which will hopefully lay the foundation for increased genetic gain for Irish sheep farmers in the future. A summary of these projects are below – more details on each project can be found on the Sheep Ireland website www.sheep.ie

OviGen

Researching the potential benefits of genomic (DNA) technology for Irish sheep farmers, as well as developing new health indexes for traits such as Lameness, Daginess and Mastitis.

SusShep

Aims to benefit European sheep farmers by;

- Assessing why cervical AI is very successful in some countries/ breeds and not in others
- By investigating the establishment of a ewe longevity index which can be incorporated into each partner countries genetic evaluation
- Assessing labour input and carbon hoofprint on sheep farms

SheepNet

Increasing sheep productivity and flock profitability on a European wide scale through knowledge exchange. SheepNet will promote the implementation and dissemination of innovative and best technologies and practices for the improvement of sheep productivity. This network is open to all EU countries, stakeholders, sheep producers. Many national and transnational workshops, publications and events will be realised under SheepNet.

OviData

A European Innovation Partnerships funded project assessing the impact that genomic (DNA) technologies can have on Irish commercial sheep farms. Parentage identification of lambs on commercial farms is restricting sheep genetic improvement. Genomic technologies can solve this issue. OviData will investigate the application of this technology at farm level.
